Dear Ethan,

As you know, Brown University, through its Office of Chaplains and Religious Life, governs the affiliation of religious groups with the university. Through Brown's Office of Chaplains and Religious Life, the university has long established standards and procedures for the recognition of religious groups. These standards are designed to ensure that the religious groups at Brown are accountable to the university and that they do not pose a threat to the safety or integrity of the university community.

In the letter referenced above, Dr. James E. Perleman (D.R.C.) has requested more
